NSF allocates 94 percent of its approximately $8.5 billion budget for grants and awards to support research projects, facilities, and Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math (STEM) education.

NSF funds research in all 50 states and U.S. territories.

NSF fosters international scientific collaboration on all 7 continents around the globe.

About 2,000 academic and other private and public institutions across the U.S. conduct NSF-funded research.

NSF supports 24 percent of all federally funded academic fundamental research at U.S. colleges and universities.

The NSF by the Numbers Dashboard represents NSF’s investment in improving the delivery and openness of information to the public.

What can you see on the external Dashboard?
The NSF by the Numbers Dashboard provides statistical and funding information for awards funded, institutions funded, funding rates, proposals evaluated, and award obligations by fiscal year.

Included in the NSF By the Numbers Dashboard are:
Counts of Awards Funded, Institutions Funded, Funding Rates, Proposals Evaluated, and Award Obligations.

Also included are graphs and other visuals displaying:
• A 10-year view based on FY2011 – FY2020 for all measures;
• A geographical map which allows toggle between map view and bar graph view of States, Congressional Districts, and Institutions, and provides Award details for each Institution;
• Metrics at the selected Directorate level;
• Detailed reports for Awards; and
• Trendline comparisons for all metrics.
